For the Middlebury Register A Merry Christmas Day.

The year is slowly dying, ments swiftly flying Upon their car away Where ancient wreaths are lying ; While every hope is sighing A merry Christmas Day,

As rosy morn is breaking. Each fluttering heart awaking. Whom sleep has led astray, Her lulling arms forsaking, Sees joy in soon partaking A merry Christmas Day.

Now joy around is flowing, And blushing cheeks are glowing. Among the light and gay ; As zenhyrs lightly blowing, Bright Hope is e'er foreshowing

A merry Christmas day.

Some tender heart is heaving, Some gentle maiden weaving Her hopes without delay ; For Chronos is bequeathing. And fairy Hymen wrenthing A merry Christmas Day!

The rosy and the blushing, The youthful and the flushing. The aged and the grey, Each daily calling husbing, In Pleasure's circle rushing Enjoy a Christmas Day.

So come ye lawyers prusing With mortgages foreclosing, From rushing business stay;— Ye doctors all reposing, Awake and stop your dozing

This merry Christmas Day ! Ye heary merchants trading In silks and colors fading, Desist, as well ve may "With bricks your pockets lading,"

Or luckless business wading,

With golden edges fumbling, Ye scholars, cease your rumbling Along your prosy way : Awhile your classic stumbling Rest, with your ceaseless grambling, This merry Christmas Day!

This merry Christmas Day,

To time ve aged clinging. And ye that wreathes are bringing To Pleasure's throne array , To all your garlands swinging, We wish, white Time is winging, A Merry Christmas Day CALAMUS COLUMBIE. North Ferrisburgh, Vt.

Aaron Burr.

The mother of Aaron Burr, many of our readers are aware, was the daughter when Aaron was a young child, she says, " My little son has been sick, with a slow fever, ever since my brother left us, and has been brought to the brink of the grave, but I hope in mercy God is bringing him up again. I was enabled to resign the child, after a severe struggle with nature, with the greatest freeom. God showed me that the child was not my own, but his; and that he had a right to recall what he had lent, whenever he thought fit; and I had no. reason to complain, or say God was hard Fox, in conversation, never flagged; with me.
